Why did the indigenous people convert to a foreign religion? Notes from Indian Country By Tim Giago (Nanwica Kciji) © 2016 Unity South Dakota

It is written (Niehardt - Black Elk Speaks - 1932) that in the end, Black Elk converted to Catholicism and it is also well-known that Lakota Chief Red Cloud also converted to Catholicism and this brings me to ask: Why?

There have been many very traditional Lakota who never gave up their inherent spirituality for Catholicism or any of the other foreign religion that came from Europe. Crazy Horse, one of the truly great Lakota leaders, went to his grave still holding on to the traditional spiritual beliefs of his ancestors. Why did so many Lakota, Navajo, Pueblo, and other tribal people give up their centuries old beliefs and convert to a foreign religion?

Were the traditional religious beliefs of the indigenous people so weak that its practitioners could give it up so willingly? Or were the persuasive powers of the missionaries so overwhelming that they could cause a people with spiritual beliefs much older than their own to toss them aside and embrace their religion?

This begs the question: How strong were the traditional beliefs of the indigenous people? The Bible says that Christians felt so strongly about their religion they marched into the den of hungry lions singing the praises of their creator. We may never know how many Indians reacted in the same fashion when asked to give up their traditional beliefs and accept a new one. We do know that many Indians chose death before they would accept a new belief.

It is said by Christians that it doesn't really matter if one believes in the Indian way or in the Christian way because we all worship the same God. If that is true, why were Native Americans forced to push aside the way they worshipped their God and forced to accept worshipping another God in another way?

The invading Christians labeled the indigenous people as heathens. They set out with a vengeance to cleanse the land of these heathens. The dictates of the Spanish conquerors were, "Convert or die." The Christian's concept of heaven was that if the heathen Indians were not Christians they would never enter the Kingdom of Heaven. Heaven seemed to be the ultimate goal of the settlers and they never considered that that indigenous people had their own version of heaven.

After his conversion Chief Red Cloud gave up the land where Holy Rosary Mission was built. He asked to be buried at the Holy Rosary cemetery in the black robe of the Catholic priests. He was granted his wish. He and other tribal leaders then proceeded to give up land for other religious orders to build their churches and schools.

Would Crazy Horse have done the same if he had surrendered his freedom to become an Agency Indian?

We will never know the answer to that question, but perhaps Native Americans in the year 2016 should re-examine their concept of Christianity and look back on all of the spiritual beliefs they gave up. The beliefs of the indigenous people appear to be far superior to those of the doom and gloom religions of the European settlers. The "Happy Hunting Grounds" cliché that has become a part of the vernacular would suggest that the Indians preferred happy to hell, fire and brimstone.

In my observance and participation in the spiritual practices of the Lakota, I find that these traditional ways are so much more profound, or down to earth, than the practices of the religions that came across the ocean. It is no wonder that the Native Americans that met the first settlers had a hard time understanding their apparent lack of humor and the shame they felt about the human body.

Because the Indians dressed to accommodate the seasons, they were immediately called naked savages. The Indians had no shame of their bodies, but it was not long before the Indian women were forced to cover their naked breasts by the invading Christians. The settlers forced their self-shame upon the women.

Perhaps it was an act of white supremacy that caused the settlers to totally block out and begin to destroy the faith and ideologies of the indigenous people. There was never an effort made to understand their beliefs. It was automatically assumed that they were inferior and therefore their spirituality and traditions were worthless. They took from the indigenous people the tools to survive and cast aside all others. If they converted to Christianity they would be saved and much more, they would be civilized. Thousands of converted Christian Indians still died at the hands of the settlers. Many died while on their knees praying to their new god.

I am still left with the question that has bothered me all of my life: Why did so many indigenous people convert to the religions that came from a foreign land with a Bible in which not one indigenous tribe in the Western Hemisphere is ever mentioned?

Thoughts from a Sad Place by Lance Morgan kind of thing that makes us unique and although it is often based in tragedy, it also highlights the strengths of living in a community where we are all connected.

Being a tribal community can be difficult, but I would rather have the support that comes with it then to suffer alone. Maybe when we all share a little bit of the pain and it helps those closest to the person suffering.

A Related Thought

Community health is a big issue in our community. We have so many people suffering from what are largely self-inflicted wounds. Diabetes, heart issues and strokes, all point to lifestyle and diet choices. We also have side effects of alcohol and drug use. I am no saint and just as guilty of having a bad diet and the occasional beer. But everyday I get on that treadmill and no matter how pathetic my work out is I continue to try. I even have mostly given up bacon!

As a community we are slowly hurting ourselves in so many ways. I worry because my grandfather, mother and two aunts have had strokes and my family has a history of diabetes. I would really prefer to avoid a heart attack or stroke if at all possible. Something things you can't control, but mostly of these issues comes down to simple choices about what you consume and having healthy options available.

I admire the effort that our health professionals put into educating our community on diet issues, but for every person who makes the right choices we have another 10 who don't. We have figured out how to create jobs. We have figured out that we need to get educated. We have even figured out how to start dealing with the housing crisis in our community. But we need to take the next step and create a healthy community so that we are around long enough to enjoy all the hard work and reap the benefits by watching the success of our large families, instead of sharing in their pain.

I don't know what I am going to do about it exactly. I am not much of an educator, but I am in the position to help with the access to healthy options. I am open to suggestions.

I am tired of watching people suffer. Old age needs to be our preferred method of saying goodbye!

Contact me at hochunk@aol.com

The last few weeks have been difficult. It seems everywhere I turn lately someone is suffering some kind of health issue or passing. I have lost a long time friend and mentor and also a beautiful young relative who was just starting her life. I have seen another friend suffer greatly from the side effects of diabetes and I have heard of several other people who I know or I am related to having serious life threatening health issues.

I expressed some dismay about this recently and someone mentioned that they thought that tribal communities experience so much mental trauma because we are all so closely linked and related in some way. So in the outside world when this kind of thing happens it is fairly isolated to those closest to the person, but when it happens in a tribal community a much larger circle feels it.

The larger sense of family and connections can make experiencing the loss of a family member or friend harder on a community, but if you think about it there is an opposite side to this coin. It can also provide a large support network from the family who has suffered the loss.

One of the best things about Winnebago is how people do all they can to support a family by helping, donating or just offering support. I stopped by a wake to offer my condolences and saw several people doing all they can to prepare the noon meal. It is that

JESUS OUR SAVIOR LUTHERAN OUTREACH

Pastor Ricky Jacob

"Our Sons and Daughters"

May our sons in their youth be like plants full grown, our daughters like corner pillars cut for the structure of a palace; may our granaries be full, providing all kinds of produce; may our sheep bring forth thousands and ten thousands in our fields; may our cattle be heavy with young, suffering no mishap or failure in bearing;

may there be no cry of distress in our streets!

Blessed are the people to whom such blessings fall!

Blessed are the people whose God is the Lord!

[Psalm 144:12-15 ESV]

The above is a song of the tribe of Israel. King David wrote this psalm as a prayer for the people whom he was blessed by God to rule. This prayer is a guide for all of us who have the vocation, the calling from God, to serve as parents and/or guardians of children.

What God-fearing parent does not desire to have his or her child grow up and reach their full stature and potential? Sadly, in this fallen world, racked with disease and suffering, this does not always happen. We often focus on what is not possible rather than on what is indeed possible with the strength of our Creator and the guidance of His Spirit.

Often as a young person enters their tween and teen ages they are led further and further away from knowing their Creator and further away from walking in His ways as found in His Sacred Scriptures. Too many young people have a distorted or a minuscule amount of knowledge of their Father in heaven, His Son Jesus, or the powerful work of His Spirit. Many young people are not being protected from the Evil One and are subjected to all sorts of attacks, temptations and are easily led to do evil things to themselves and others.

Some reject the wisdom that comes down from above and the ways of their parents who attempt to walk in these ways. Some foolishly walk in the ways of their foolish parents, or the wayward ways of their chosen friends or companions.

Still others shun the ways of their foolish parents and find grandparents, teachers, coaches and friends who will encourage them as they mature to become men and women of integrity. They aspire to live their lives as God-fearing, honest, friendly, hospitable, courageous, and upright young leaders who can be counted on when the going gets tough. With the assist of the Spirit of God they will be remain connected to Jesus through faith and bear much fruit. Apart from faith in Jesus you can do nothing.

The final line of this Hebrew Psalm is: Blessed are the people whose God is the Lord! This is my prayer for you and for your family. Each and every week you are invited to spend family time together in the House of God, hearing the Word of God, receiving the gifts of the forgiveness of sin and the blessings from above. You also become a great encouragement to all of the others who make the effort and gather together to praise and thank God, as well as to pray for the needs of others.

I was glad when they said to me, "Let us go to the house of the Lord!" Psalm 122:1

In Loving Memory ... Lupita (Lupe) Decora

Lupita (Lupe) Decora, 91, passed away peacefully Tuesday, May 16 2016 in Black River Falls, Wisconsin surrounded by her family.

Lupe was born in Isleta, New Mexico, July 29, 1924. She was preceded in death by Reverend, Wilber J. Decora and their son Ernest Decora.

Lupe was a nurse at the Winnebago Hospital for several years. After her retirement she stayed in the Winnebago community and remained active with the Reformed church before returning back to Isleta New Mexico and until most recently moved back to the Midwest. Lupe loved spending time with family and doing various activities with her grandchildren such as; painting, making pottery, cooking, gardening and most of all enjoyed nature. She was a mother to seven children and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

To the Winnebago Community,

I would like to greet you all! Here at the Angel Decora Museum we are in the process of completing a project to map our reservation in an effort to record our historic village sites, family/community burial grounds and other landmarks pertinent here on the Winnebago Indian Reservation. We would like to record this information for the purpose of reassessing our lands here on the reservation for future generations and to provide a detailed map that may include possible historic landmarks. We currently would like to reach out to those in the community who would be willing to share any information on this issue to both verify as well as to include locations that we might miss or overlook. At the end of this project we will host a forum as to what we as the Winnebago Community would like to include and properly display, along with what we should keep for our own information here on the reservation. Please call Henry Payer at the Angel Decora Museum at (402) 878-3313 to set up a time to discuss and share any information that may be relevant to this project. Thanks in advance! We look forward to hearing from you!

Spanish Club

Cheryl Burrell said that some of the Winnebago students asked her to have Spanish at Winnebago public school. She put Spanish club on the list for this fall.

I hope ALL the Bago students join this. Adding a world language will give your kids a better education. In about 30 years Spanish will be the major language in the United States. It will benefit your kids if they learn Spanish.

p.s. no work no eat.

SPECIAL THANK YOU...

As many of you know our Editor of the WIN fell ill three weeks ago and has been on the mend since.

Jerome was very ill and by the strength of family and friends support and prayers he was able to pull through the illness and is now on the mend. He probably won't be able to return to work for a month or so, but I know he is looking forward to it. Thank you VJ and Trish for stepping in and getting the WIN out to all of us.

Jerome's family would like to send a HUGE thank you to everyone that stopped in at the hospital to see him or to sit with the family. All of your support and prayers are greatly appreciated. Special thank you's to the people that brought the family meals as we waited. A HUGE THANK YOU to Lance for everything that you do and the supportive friendship you have with Jerome.

Jerome will be coming home today and is still in need of prayers as he will facing lifestyle changes that need to be made for his good health. As we all know it is hard to change old bad habits, but when it has to be done for our survival, we need strength to make those changes and stick to them.

ONCE AGAIN THANK YOU.

From: Jerome's Children, Siblings and Lil' Mama

Thank You ...

Little Priest Tribal College would like to thank WinnaVegas Casino & Resorts for their diamond sponsorship in the amount of $50,000.00 for each of the next five years. Half of the sponsorships will be used for Casino employee scholarships for professional development opportunities.

Thank you again for your generosity, which will make it possible for many worthy young women and young men to have the advantage of a quality education and athletic success.

Summer Youth Spotlight

My name is Zeke Porter, I am a 16 year old enrolled member of the Omaha Tribe of Nebraska, employed through the Summer Youth Program. I have been attending school at Winnebago Public School since I was 5, and I have always enjoyed it here. My favorite activities include playing football, working out, fishing, and, of course, sleeping. My goal is to attend college at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, so I always make sure I work extra hard in school. I think that working hard in school has translated into my work ethic in everything I do. I got a job this summer so I could have money to do the things I enjoy, while gaining more work experience.

Alexandria Neff is a 15 year old enrolled member of the Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska. Some of Alex's favorite activities are playing volleyball, running, and drawing. Something cool that she plans on doing this summer is traveling to California with family. Some of her main interests include music, sports, and sleeping. She wants to buy a new phone with her first paycheck.

Nicholas Painter is a 16 year old enrolled member of the Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska. Nick's main interest is football; his favorite teams are the Cornhuskers, Minnesota Vikings, and the Winnebago Indians. He plans on going to many wrestling camps, and to go fishing with friends all summer. Some of his hobbies include fishing, playing games, and eating. He really wants to get new football cleats with his first paycheck.

MEN'S HEALTH MONTH

Awareness. Prevention.
Education. Family.

www.menshealthmonth.org

The purpose of Men's Health Month is to heighten the awareness of preventable health problems and encourage early detection and treatment of disease among men and boys. This month gives health care providers, public policy makers, the media, and individuals an opportunity to encourage men and boys to seek regular medical advice and early treatment for disease and injury. The response has been overwhelming with thousands of awareness activities in the USA and around the globe.

Currently, men are dying an average of 5 years younger than women and lead 9 out of 10 of the top causes of death.

Men are at greater risk for death in every age group. More males than females are born (105 vs 100), but by age 35, women outnumber men.

Men have a higher suicide death rate than women. Men account for 92% of fatal workplace injuries.

Men do not see physicians for a physical exam nearly as often as women and men are more likely to be uninsured than women.

There has been progress over the last 20 years since Congress recognized National Men's Health Week, supported by the Men's Health Caucus in Congress and the APHA Men's Health Caucus. <http://www.menshealthnetwork.org/library/mens-health-progress-1994-2014.pdf>
