

A FIFTY YEAR OLD FIGHT FOR WINNEBAGO LAND BACK, ACROSS THE MISSOURI RIVER

Written/Photography by: Jordana R. Bass

SLOAN, IA- It was the year 1970 when approximately 2,000 acres of land was illegally taken from the Winnebago tribe by the army corps of engineers. A 50-year fight for the land back hasn't stopped. Today it continues, and finally a land bill (H.R. 1240-Rep Feenstra) called the "Winnebago land transfer act of 2023" is being reviewed.

On a beautiful Monday morning June 7th, 2023, the temperature was 80 degrees and the sun was shining. It was a great day to hit the back roads for a site visit to the tracts of land the tribe had been fighting for.

Prior to that the WTN Tribal Council met with representatives from the U.S. representative for Iowa's 4th congressional district. The district covers the western border of Iowa, which includes Sioux city, IA and council bluffs.

Danelle Smith, legal council for the WTN and Big Fire Law attorney opened up the presentation by stating "the purpose of the bill is to return the land that was taken by the army corps of engineers from the Winnebago tribe in 1970." I think visiting the land, seeing it in person provides a lot of contexts for what the tribe is trying to accomplish.

By sharing how the tribe has gotten to this point, it is important to take a look back at the history. In 1865, the Winnebago reservation was established by treaty. Smith shared "the land was promised to the tribe by treaty forever." The United States should take action to right this wrong and honor that treaty that was entered into between the Winnebago tribe and the United States in 1865.

At the time in 1970. There were two separate condemnation actions brought by the army corps, one being in Nebraska, and one across the Missouri river on the Iowa side. Condemnation is when a local, state, or federal government seizes private property from an owner and then compensates that owner for that property.

Tribal Councilman Louie LaRose was at the forefront of the fight, and he shared a story expressing "I was a team with Felix White Sr., and Sterling Snake, we had a hell of a time. They told us to take the money, we didn't want the money, we didn't want to give up our land, it was ours. Sterling told us we had a responsibility to fight for the land, for our tribe. We came back to the tribal government and told the council we have to fight for this land and win. We were in charge of the fight with limited resources. We didn't know what kind of fight we were getting into and the corps and the history of beating tribes that are down the river."

Lorelei Decora, WTN Tribal Council Secretary shared her recollections of the moment when the Army Corps was looking to seize the land. "I was a young teenager when the corps of engineers seized our Iowa land. We felt like we didn't have a voice for what we considered illegal seizure of our lands. I'm proud to see that finally there is a possibility after so many years, we have a chance to get our Iowa land back."

Smith shared "in 1970, the District Court of Nebraska ruled in favor of the army corps and said that the condemnation actions could proceed both in Nebraska and then in 1971. Where that case was decided in Iowa. Again the tribe lost at the lower

THROWBACK LETTER TO EDITOR

November 20, 1968

We had a very good turn-out at dinner today here in Winnebago. One of our Elderly Citizens, who had been a shut-in for quite some time, attended dinner for the first time today. Many of the regular attendance were very glad to see him and several of them walked over to him and shook hands with him and expressed their happiness as to seeing him here at this Winnebago-Center. I understand this certain gentleman was a very hard person to convince to attend this dinner. We owe his attendance to the soothing, persuasive talk of Mr. Richard Kearnes.

Along with our Elderly Citizens we had the Dorcus Sewing Club of Winnebago share the dining room with us. Darlene Bear who is the president of the Dorcus Sewing Club was very gracious about accepting "one little corner" for her girls. A few of our Elderly Citizens are members of this club. Aprons, pillow cases, dresser scarves; anything that needs sewing the Dorcus girls have it!

Reluctancy has completely vanished from the Winnebago Elderly Citizens. The group today showed every trace of being one big happy family. The continuance of these meals has had a marvelous effect on these Elderly Citizens. Comparing the meal we had today with the very first meal, I noticed a tremendous amount of difference in the attitude of the people, as they arrived and as they departed. They are definitely far more happier, friendlier, energetic and "By Golly! Their vigor is 'moving!'" court level.”

Through that time there has been years of litigation and has been introduced through legislation as the Winnebago land transfer act back in 2017. By rep Steve King “that was H.R. 3688, the Winnebago land act of 2017. So, the tribe was happy to have that bipartisan support at that time and to have the bill introduced. The bill did not go forward.”

We come to today and as a result of Congressman Sharice Davids introducing the bill late last year. As well as congressman Feenstra who was then a co-sponsor of the bill “we’re happy he (Feenstra) took it upon himself to be a primary sponsor of the bill that is now pending congress.”

That bill was presented before the United States house of representatives committee on natural resources subcommittee on Indian and insular affairs.

During a legislature hearing on “H.R. 1240- The Winnebago Tribal Chairwomen Victoria Kitcheyan provided a statement stating “the bill would transfer the tribe’s former reservation lands from the army corps back to the department of interior to be held in trust for the tribe. The land in this bill is mostly woodland and marsh along the Iowa side of the Missouri river and recreational, hunting, and fishing area.”

Once the land is restored to the tribe, the Winnebago Wildlife & Parks Department would be responsible for maintaining the land.

Kitcheyan adds “the department oversees hunting and fishing on 10,000 acres of woodland on the Nebraska side of the Missouri river, they have the experience and resources to regulate recreational and conservation activities and ensure laws and regulations are enforced.”

Emily McGrath (district director for rep. Feenstra) the bill should be going through the full national resources committee later this week. Then after that it should be going to the House (of Representatives) for a full vote. The senate has a little bit of a different process but should be continuing to move through the house.

However, the language in the bill will need some readjusting Smith expressed “the tribe does not intend to do gaming. To eliminate that the need to explain that we will go insert a sentence in the bill that says gaming would not be permitted on these lands.”

Circling back Decora expressed “I remember when I was a teenager when it was decided they were discussing we cant take on the corps of engineers. We’re the little Winnebago tribe of Nebraska, some were getting up. At that time, I remember Reuben Snake, he was sitting back and listening, when everybody got done, he said we’re going to be okay, we’re going to make friends along the way. You come in here from Feenstra’s office. Those are the friends he predicted.”

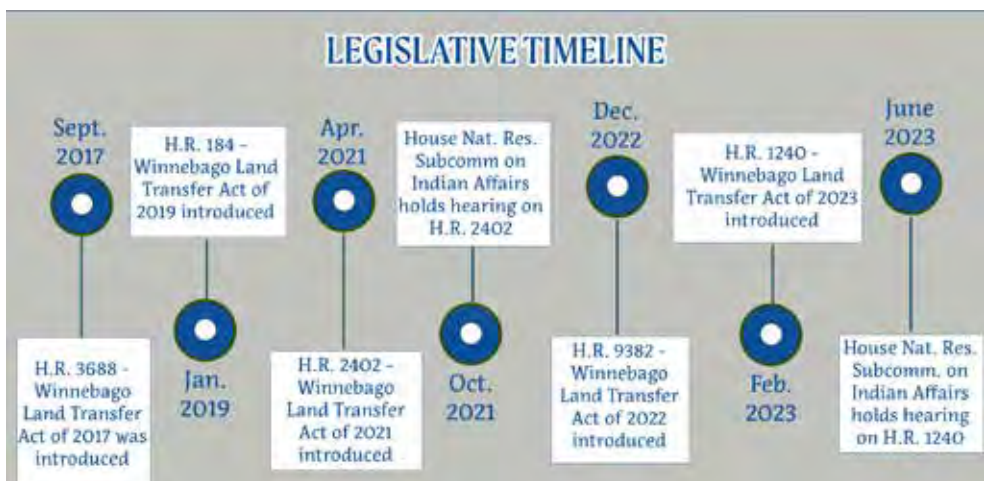

After the site visit, the group stopped to take a pic. Staff from the Physical Resources crew had a big hand in helping the Tribe get to this point.

LaRose has been a part of the fight for the Iowa land back for 53 years. He expressed” I keep telling the council, we are the Winnebago tribe we fight. to take advantage of people who want to help us. To find people who understand what we’re talking about. When we say we’re natives, we don’t believe in taking land and dividing it up, we’re apart of mother earth and the land is apart of us. You’re helping us in a way that’s hard to explain how much I appreciate your endeavors you brought us together.”

Pinagigi to all those who helped make this historical moment happen from our tribal leaders from the past, present, and future generations of the Winnebago tribe.

HO-CHUNK FARMS, SPRING 2023

Submitted by: Ho-Chunk, Inc. Communications

WINNEBAGO, NE "Growth" has been the theme with Ho-Chunk Farms since its inception in 2012, and this year is no different.

"We've added another full-time employee, putting us up to seven now," said Aaron LaPointe. "And we've added two Ambassadors to our team, both Tribal members."

Aaron has recently been promoted to Ho-Chunk, Inc.'s Senior Director of Business Operations, where he oversees operations at Ho-Chunk Farms, Pony Express, Ho-Chunk Trading Group, and Management Services.

Filling his previous position as Agribusiness Manager is Cory Cleveland, Winnebago Tribal member and former Ho-Chunk, Inc. intern. Cory will handle the day-to-day operations at Ho-Chunk Farms and has worked with Ho-Chunk Farms for over a year.

Additionally, longtime Ho-Chunk Farms employee and Tribal member Jeffrey Thomas Jr. has been promoted to Agribusiness Operations Senior Supervisor, where he will manage field operations.

"I'm happy to see the growth at Ho-Chunk Farms and to have the ability to promote Tribal member employees while we continue to enhance the food and land sovereignty of the Tribe," Aaron said.

The Farms team will manage 6,200 acres of land total this season, which will mostly be comprised of conventional corn and soybeans, but also 1,000 acres of organic crop. Additionally, they will farm 14 acres of Indian corn.

Additional staff and the recent purchase of a planter with ARPA funding has allowed the Ho-Chunk Farms staff to farm 3,000 acres themselves, up from 1,200 acres from 2022. The remaining acres are farmed by contractors.

A major goal moving forward is acquiring more farmland.

"Our growth is dependent on our ability to acquire land," said Aaron. "We've been working with the Tribe on land acquisitions."

Since its inception, Ho-Chunk Farms has worked directly with the Tribe to increase farmland lease values by creating competition on trust land and separately begin buying back non-trust farmland within the reservation.

The approach has created millions in annual lease payouts for the Tribe and Tribal members. Each of the last two years, Ho-Chunk Farms has returned $1.4 million in farmland lease payouts to the Winnebago Tribe and Tribal members.

OBITUARY

Irene Marie LaMere, 81, of Colorado Springs passed away into the embrace of Our Lord on May 31, 2023 after a short illness.

Irene was born in Winnebago, Nebraska on April 9, 1942 to Vernie and Gail LaMere and was the third of eight children. She graduated from Bishop Heelan High School in Sioux City, IA and worked at a variety of places in Sioux City before moving to Colorado Springs in the late 70's. She was a tenacious and hardworking woman who worked mostly in the Electronics and Defense industries in the Colorado Springs area, eventually retiring from Northrop Grumman in the late 90's. She made many lasting friendships throughout her career and thoroughly enjoyed her post retirement jobs at Foxworth-Galbraith Lumber Company in Monument, CO, and as a babysitter/caregiver for the children of relatives and friends. Irene enjoyed reading, gardening, tending to her home and took in many animals over the years. She absolutely loved her dogs!

Irene is preceded in death by her parents, Vernie and Gail (Dean) LaMere; siblings, Sister Mary Anno LaMere of Denver and Charles LaMere of Pueblo, CO. She is survived by sisters, Gwen (Tim) McKivergan and Theresa (Mark) Rush of Texas; brothers, Harold (Jean) LaMere, Edward (Sherry) LaMere and Tim (Cheryl) LaMere of Nebraska. She had numerous nieces and nephews, including grand and great-grand, whom she loved very much. She was a wonderful daughter, sister and aunt. Irene was especially close to nieces Teresa and Michelle who helped her so much over the years. (We all appreciate you both for taking such good care of her.) Her wit and sense of humor will be missed by us all.

A celebration of Irene's life will take place at 11:00 AM on June 23, 2023 at Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Colorado Springs, followed by the Rite of Committal in South Sioux City, Nebraska on July 28, 2023.

In lieu of flowers, please consider a donation in her memory to Mary's Home, a safe haven for women and children escaping cycles of poverty, abuse and homelessness in Colorado Springs.

Submitted by: Youth Crisis Intervention Center

Some of the things that parents go through are really awful. That is a fact, and there's nothing wrong with your child seeing your distress; after all, she is learning that life can indeed be hard at times. But to learn resilience, she also needs to see you cope and then gradually recover. That's the real life lesson she learns by watching how you handle things.

When things go wrong, you can model resilience by:

- appropriately expressing your anger, hurt, loss;
- showing that you go to trusted persons (including health professionals) to talk things over and ask for help;
- showing confidence (sometimes even when you don't feel it) that you're going to handle the problem;
- showing your pride when you do solve the problem, or make a step in addressing part of it.

If you are pretty good at regaining stability after a bad experience, you only need to let your child see how you do it. If you are depressed or stuck in negative territory, be aware that your child is watching – and learning from – you. Get help so that you can move on; there's nothing wrong with letting your child know: "I'm seeing a counselor, someone who can help me fix what's wrong so I can feel better." A final point; although you want to model resilience, it's the child's resilience we're concerned with here. If things in your life cause you to lose your temper, don't try to fool yourself that giving him a quick hug afterwards makes everything okay. You may feel better, but he's likely to feel hurt and confused by your mixed messages. If you recognize that this a pattern of behavior, you'll probably benefit from getting help to change it; and this is a life lesson in resilience you want your child to copy.

What could make a four-year-old depressed? Why would a 10-year-old become angry all the time? What would lead a 13-year-old to withdraw from social activities? The answer? Lots of things! And some are the same things that hurt adults:

- the loss of a loved one;
- parental separation or divorce;
- physical (including sexual) abuse of himself or a sibling;
- witnessing violence or substance abuse at home, or in the neighborhood;
- poverty, and the worry that it brings;
- parental job loss;
- a serious illness of either the parent or the child.

You know what these things feel like; you know too that it can take some work and some time to get over them. Your child is likely to have the same range of emotional responses as you do, but probably with a good deal more doubt and fear. The fact is that children do not see things just the way adults do and sometimes the parent barely notices what is, for the child, a traumatic experience. Some examples of these:

- being and/or feeling different from other kids;
- difficulty measuring up to expectations;
- parents who may fight a lot, leading the child to fear a divorce even when there's none being considered;
- being excluded or bullied at school;
- being humiliated in front of others;
- frequent moves, especially if the child is the quiet type;
- absence of parent.

Adults need to also remember that their greater experience with life may mean they tend to dismiss as just "a little bump in the road" what is for a child a big deal. If you think back to your own childhood, you can easily understand how adults make light of something that is huge in the eyes of a child – and, the fact is, some things are huge for a person of any age.

VOCATION OF FATHERHOOD

Submitted by: Pastor Ricky Jacobs

This past Sunday, many took time to thank his/her father for serving in his God-given vocation or calling. This special day is in accord with the following command of God: "Honor your father and your mother, that your days may be long in the land that the Lord your God is giving you" [Exodus 20:12 (ESV)].

The vocation of fatherhood mirrors that of our Creator - Jesus' heavenly Father. Creator God is the giver of life. Reflect on the words of Paul to the saints, the believers in Christ, at Ephesus: 'For this reason I bow my knees before the Father, from whom every family in heaven and on earth is named, that according to the riches of his glory he may grant you to be strengthened with power through his Spirit in your inner being, so that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith—' [Ephesians 3:14-17a (17b-19) (ESV)].

Creator God blesses men with the role of being fathers of their child(ren). An earthly father is to serve in many ways including providing for the basic needs of his offspring by providing emotional, mental, physical and spiritual support.

Creator God has also called fathers to serve as discipliners of their children. Again, this role is similar to the role of Creator God. Solomon wrote the following proverb: "My son, do not regard lightly the discipline of YAHWEH, nor be weary when reproved by him. For YAHWEH disciplines the one he loves, and chastises every son whom he receives" [Proverbs 12:5-11].

It is truly an act of love to discipline, not to abuse, but to train up a child in the fear (a healthy respect) of YAHWEH. We turn again to Paul and his letter to the saints at Ephesus: 'Fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, but bring them up in the discipline and instruction of the Lord' [Ephesians 6:4 (ESV)]. One of the key roles of a father is to be the spiritual teacher of his child(ren). The father is to lead his family in prayer. He is also to lead his family in attending divine services, where Creator God serves his family - his adopted sons and daughters, on a weekly basis.

The father is to instruct his family in regard to the Lord Jesus through daily devotions, reading God's Sacred Word and leading them in prayer. It is good for a father to be a model of a spiritual warrior by beginning his day in prayer, offering a prayer at meal times, and closing the day with a prayer. What a comfort it is to be blessed with such a father!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

REMEMBERING DAPHNE EVANS, NOV. 26, 1961 - JUNE 14, 2023

Submitted by: Family of Daphne

WINNEBAGO, NE - Daphne Evans, known by her Ho-Chunk name, Caxji Nage Pi Maxi Nazi (Good Buffalo Heart Woman Standing On Cloud), passed away on June 14th, leaving behind a legacy of love, community service, and a profound impact on those she touched. She was 61.

Daphne was born on November 26, 1961, in Winnebago, Nebraska, embracing the rich heritage and traditions of her Native American roots. As a proud member of the Winnebago Tribe, she dedicated herself to advocating for Indian Education and the well-being of her community.

In her early years, she attended Winnebago Public Schools and then graduated from Phoenix Indian High School and was crowned Ms. Phoenix Indian High School in 1980, exemplifying her poise, intelligence, and leadership.

Throughout her life, Daphne actively engaged in various roles and initiatives that shaped the lives of many. She served as a member of the Winnebago School Board, where she tirelessly worked to enhance educational opportunities for tribal youth. Her passion for education and her commitment to fostering a nurturing learning environment were a driving force in her work.

Daphne's dedication to her tribe extended beyond the realm of education. She served on the Winnebago Tribe's Enrollment Committee, playing a vital role in ensuring the integrity and inclusivity of tribal membership. Additionally, she served as the Assistant Administrator of Housing, diligently working to provide safe and affordable housing options for her community.

Recently, Daphne assumed the esteemed role of Ho-Chunk, Inc. Ambassador, representing her tribe with grace, dignity, and a commitment to economic empowerment. Her efforts to strengthen the tribal economy and create opportunities for future generations will continue to have a lasting impact.

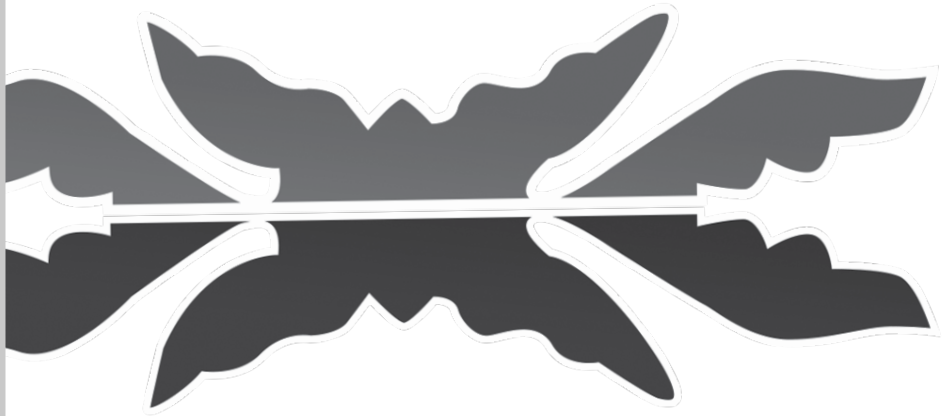

Daphne's impact extended far beyond her professional and community involvement. She was a loving mother, a devoted wife, and a cherished friend. Her nurturing spirit, infectious laughter, and kind words brightened the lives of those around her. She enjoyed the company of four canine fur babies. Daphne will forever be remembered for her resilience, compassion, and unwavering support.

Daphne is survived by her husband Reno Evans, her mother, Catherine Frenchman, her siblings, Jamie (Diane Redhorn) Frenchman, Sharon (Avery Blackhawk) Frenchman, and John Bouchal, her sons Teddy (Roxanne) Frenchman and John (Kristina) Jensen, her daughter KT Evans, her seven grandchildren, and a community grateful for her contributions. Her memory will be forever etched in the hearts of those who had the privilege of knowing her.

Wake services will begin June 15, 2023 at the Blackhawk Community Center, and funeral services on Saturday, June 17th at 2 pm at the same location. Issac Smith officiating.

May her legacy continue to inspire and guide us, and may her spirit find eternal peace.
