Youth Visit the Tribal Buffalo Herd

Participants of the Boys & Girls Club summer Program last week loaded up in the vans and headed east to visit the Winnebago Tribe's main Buffalo Herd. The Winnebago Wild Life & Parks Department maintains the main herd and the town herd of 8 head. The Wild Life & Parks personnel baited the buffalo to get close to their visitors and shared general information on the herd and buffalo.

Boys & Girls Club of Winnebago Receive New Van

The Winnebago Housing & Development Commission last week contributed a New 2017 15 passenger van for use by the Boys & Girls Club programs. Housing Maintenance Department Supervisor, Frank Smith handed over the van keys to Boys & Girls Club Director, Mellissa Modlin, at the Knoepfler offices in Sioux City, Iowa.

Indianz.com... Winnebago Tribe takes advantage of new 'Opportunity Zone' designation

'It's a big deal'
Tribes in Arizona, Montana, Washington and Wisconsin also join new effort
By Kevin Abourezk

Opportunity is a word the Winnebago people know well.

They understand its value, having had so few opportunities to lift themselves up from grinding poverty following the loss of their traditional way of life and ancestral lands in Wisconsin.

For many years, the Winnebago Tribe struggled to develop economic opportunities as it lacked many of the same resources non-Native communities enjoyed, including land that it managed and could use as collateral, as well as access to loans and other financial tools needed to start businesses.

In 1992, the tribe opened a casino and two years later used a portion of its profits to launch an economic development corporation meant to diversify the tribe's assets.

Now the tribe is seeking to create more opportunity for its people by taking advantage of a federal program designed to attract investors to fund projects in low-income areas.

Recently, Nebraska Gov. Pete Ricketts (R) nominated the county that encompasses most of the Winnebago Reservation as a federal Opportunity Zone, along with 43 other areas in the state.

The U.S. Department of the Treasury has since approved Ricketts' nominations.

"This announcement builds on the positive news we've seen from companies from Nelnet to Wal-Mart, who are reinvesting their tax cuts into their workforce through higher wages and bonuses," Ricketts said in a statement.

The Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017 authorized the governor of each U.S. state and territory to nominate a certain number of qualifying census tracts as Opportunity Zones. The act allows each governor to nominate up to 25 percent of the total number of eligible census tracts within a state as Opportunity Zones.

To be eligible as an Opportunity Zone, census tracts must qualify as low-income, according to standards established by the U.S. Treasury.

The program is designed to attract investment in low-income census tracts by offering deferral of capital gains taxes on investments made in eligible Opportunity Zones. The program offers greater tax benefits the longer investors keep their investments in the Opportunity Zones.

Lucas LaRose, corporate counsel for Ho-Chunk Inc., the economic development arm of the Winnebago Tribe, said the establishment of the Winnebago Reservation as an Opportunity Zone could lead to significant economic benefits for the tribe.

"It's a big deal," he said. "We're really excited the governor nominated the reservation for this."

Ho-Chunk Inc., the Winnebago Tribe and the Ho-Chunk Community Development Corporation (HCCDC) worked together to submit an application to Ricketts seeking to establish the reservation as an Opportunity Zone. HCCDC is a tribally affiliated nonprofit that seeks economic development opportunities for the tribe.

Sam Burrish, communications manager for Ho-Chunk Inc., said the reservation's designation as an Opportunity Zone will add "another tool to our financial toolbox."

"It increases our ability to get funding," he said.

Winnebago was the only reservation in Nebraska nominated to be an Opportunity Zone, though it's not the only reservation in the country nominated.

While it's unclear how many governors nominated reservation lands as Opportunity Zones, the governors of Wisconsin, Montana, Arizona and Washington nominated reservation lands.

In Wisconsin, Gov. Scott Walker (R) nominated two reservations - the Lac du Flambeau Reservation and the Lac Courte Oreilles Reservation.

"Right now, more people are employed in our state than ever before in our history, and Wisconsin is at near record lows for unemployment," Walker said in a statement announcing his nominations, which were approved on April 9.

In Montana, Gov. Steve Bullock (D) nominated seven reservations -- Black-foot, Crow, Flathead, Fort Belknap, Fort

Thoughts on a Fire...

By Lance Morgan

We recently had a fire at the older senior citizens housing in Winnebago. It left 12 Tribal Elders without a home. The Casino arranged some hotel rooms and the Red Cross helped with some money for essentials. A Go Fund me page on Facebook that Ho-Chunk, Inc. organized has raised a decent amount of money from concerned tribal members, people in Facebook land and Ho-Chunk, Inc. employees.

As nice as these gestures of help are it will not be enough long term. It will likely take at least a year to rebuild the senior complex and it isn't clear that the insurance will cover the entire cost. We have to find a place for the people to stay for the next year.

The tribe has arranged a couple meetings on what to do about the immediate and long-term problem. There are a variety of ideas on how to help, but none of them will solve the entire problem. My guess is that maybe half of the elders can be accommodated.

There are a couple problems. The first is that these are lower income apartments that are designed to help people on a fixed income, and therefore, the rents are fairly modest. This makes it hard to find other places that have prices that are comparable. Even if we discount rents significantly it will still be a financial challenge for some of the elders.

The second and bigger problem is simply that there are not enough housing units in our community. A lot of houses are boarded up and undergoing repairs. Some have been vacated due to Meth being detected and almost all of the Ho-Chunk, Inc.'s apartments and houses are full also. There is such strong demand for housing that we simply cannot accommodate the kind of pressure created by this fire. It will get worse as our population continues to grow at a very fast rate.

The Tribal entities have done a lot over the years to address this issue, but we continue to fall behind due to the increase in housing demand. We have a few issues. A lot of our money goes to renovating existing units that are damaged by the tenants. We can't afford to build many more units with constantly having to spend large amounts of money on repairs.

The Ho-Chunk Village, the soon to be unveiled Ho-Chunk Village North, and the Thunder Way Developments give us some hope, but we don't have enough money to continue to build them at the rate of demand. The Tribe allocates 1/3 of Ho-Chunk, Inc.'s dividend to the problem, but we have to balance new housing, with buying additional land for housing and figuring out how to pay for the streets and utilities.

We have built 10 elder units in the Ho-Chunk Village and only charge $400 per month for them. This is a relative bargain, but it only barely covers the cost of maintaining and insuring the homes. We make no profit on them. The lack of profit doesn't bother us, but it makes it hard to spend a lot of money on more of them because it is hard to grow the company and community if you spend large amounts of money on ventures that don't generate a profit.

So as a community, we need to make some choices. At Ho-Chunk, Inc. we have balanced the money we dedicate to housing between low income rentals, elder housing, young professional rentals, home ownership and acquiring land for future development. The Tribe's housing effort does primarily rentals at a subsidized rental rate. The Tribal Housing Authority does almost all low income and balances that between families and some senior housing.

If we want more housing, the Tribe simply needs to allocate more money to the cause. We have three entities who are focused on providing housing and all have done a very good job overall, but all of them are struggling to have enough money to address the problem. I suggest we figure out how to tap into some more funding sources and perhaps looking at the Tribe's investment fund for some calculated steps to truly address our growing problem. Without a fairly large infusion of money, we will continue to struggle and not be able to absorb a crisis like the elder fire.

We have all the pieces and ideas on how to start addressing these issues, but we need to make some hard choices to make it a priority. I suggested the investment fund, but we have also spent close to $40 million on per capita payments and other similar programs over the last 20 years. That would have been enough for every family in town to have a home and that seems like the goal we should be shooting for as a tribe--not $299 in December or a pow-wow per cap.

JESUS OUR SAVIOR LUTHERAN OUTREACH

Pastor Ricky Jacob

"Real Living versus really dying - Part Two"

Last issue I began summarizing a story that Jesus taught. The story began that with a father who had two sons. The younger son disrespected his father, demanded and received his inheritance even before his father died. This younger son thought that by so doing he would be really living!

This young man came to his senses and decided to turn back to his earthly father. How would his father respond to his son? Jesus tells us that the father was waiting and watching, hoping that his wayward son would come back home. This earthly father did not force his younger son to stay at home, or to refuse to give him his share in inheritance.

So, when the father saw his son while he was still a long way off. The father does not wait until his son pleads for mercy and bows down to him. No, his father runs to his son. He does so, not culturally appropriate for an elder to protect his son from others who would drive this disrespectful young man away. The father has compassion on his son and welcomes him back with hugs and kisses.

The son verbally admits to his sin against his heavenly Father, Creator God, as well as his father. The father accepts his son by giving him the best robe, putting a ring on his finger and sandals on his feet. Notice how this young man who at one time thought he was really living, end up homeless, shoeless and pitiful.

On top of this the father throws a party in order to celebrate! There is music and dancing. Now this is really living! However, there is someone who is not happy. The older son hearing the party going on finds out that his younger brother has returned. This upsets him so much that he refuses to join the fun.

What happens next? You need to wait until part three. If you can't wait till next time read the story of the loving father found in the gospel of Luke, chapter 15.

Each and every Sunday Creator God offers you mercy and grace at His Divine Service held at Jesus Our Savior Lutheran Church at 11 a.m., preceded by the study of God's Word at 10. We will begin a Bible study on the book of Job on June 3rd.

On Memorial Day myself and Mrs. Crystal Ross, President of the LaMere, GreenCrow, Rice Auxiliary Unit 363 handed Poppies out, for donation out at the roundabout, here in town. The Post and Association with the auxiliary President Ross would like to say 'Thank You' to the community for all the donations we have received. Many members of this great states had stopped to receive a Poppy and graciously donated. One gentleman, from #10 county, here in Nebraska stated, 'he loved the Winnebago's and our town, and he always had.' On behalf of Commander Lamere and Commander Rave I wish to say Thank You. We raised $179.00. We are raising money for a Bar-B-Que pit to be placed out at the Co. A Veterans Building. I want to thank my four children for assembling the Poppies and helping their dad out. Peck, Northern Cheyenne and Rocky Boy's reservations.

In Arizona, Gov. Doug Ducey (R) nominated the Colorado River Indian Reservation.

In Washington, state leaders decided to give tribes the ability to directly access census tracts. Each of the state's federally recognized tribes were allowed to nominate one eligible census tract for designation. LaRose said he's hopeful the designation will entice investors to finance projects the Winnebago Tribe already has begun developing.

The tribe is currently considering development on three key parcels, according to the tribe's application for designation as an Opportunity Zone. Those three parcels are part of 140 acres of land currently being used for agricultural production.

Those parcels will be transformed into mixed-used development, including commercial and office space, light industrial and at least 20 acres that will be used for affordable housing. Those projects serve as the tribe's primary focus of economic and community development over the next decade, according to the tribe's application.

Other potential projects include a tribal initiative currently underway that will seek to convert significant thousands acres of agricultural land owned by the tribe to organic farming. That initiative also seeks to foster small, independent agricultural producers who would grow vegetables, fruits and other products for local purchase.

LaRose said, while the tribe's members stand to benefit greatly from the projects that will be developed through the Opportunity Zone program, the law is also meant to benefit those who invest in reservation economic development.

"They're the ones who actually enjoy the benefit of the tax deferral and the tax exclusion," he said.

He said the tribe will now begin identifying potential projects that it can then present to potential investors for funding.

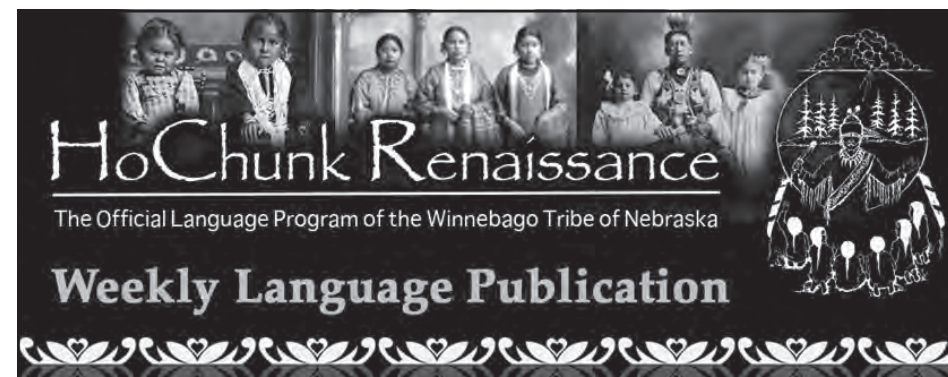

"Hopefully, that entices them," he said. "We think it will because it has before."

The Winnebago Tribe has won numerous awards for its economic development efforts, which have included development of a 100-acre, 56-unit housing development known as the Thunder Way Property and the HoChunk Village, a 40-acre, mixed-use development.

LaRose said he would like to see more of those kinds of projects in Winnebago.

"We can really build things that the tribal members need in Winnebago with this benefit," he said. "There are not a lot of limitations on what you can and cannot do with it in terms of what you can build."

Ho-Chunk Inc owns Indians.Com. The website is not involved with the Opportunity Zone program.

THE WINNEBAGO TRIBE

OF NEBRASKA

THE OFFICIAL WINNEBAGO TRIBAL FLAG

Peace, protect and preserve. The Winnebago flag was created on a field of blue to represent water. From the Great Lakes area of the Lake Michigan to the rivers of the Missouri and the Mississippi, the Winnebago people through history have been a peaceful group of fisherman and woodlands people. History tells about tribal migration, relocations, wars, and escape from bondage. During the period of the relocation, the Winnebago traveled on the water to their new homeland in Nebraska after their escape from Crow Creek Reservation in South Dakota. The Winnebago people relied on the water and the woods for food, clothing and housing.

The items on the flag represent peace, protection and preservation. The white circle that lies on the blue field represents unity by peace. When enemies disturb our peace, we defend and protect ourselves. Two arrows and a bow together represent the 2 bands of the Winnebago (HoChunk) Tribe. One band is the Wisconsin band, the other the Nebraska band. Although separated by distance, both are the identical and of the same nation.

According to Winnebago traditional beliefs, in the beginning of creation people were naked without clothes but the bow and arrow was the first tools providing a way to hunt for game which provided the means for clothing and housing. The bow and arrow being the first tools used to hunt food and protect the Winnebago people. The peace pipe, axe and beaded pouch decorated with buffalo tracks being a ceremonial tool to remember our creator for peace, protection and preservation of the Winnebago people. The pipe representing prayers to the creator for life, the axe a tool used for cutting trees and making canoes and the beaded pouch telling the story about buffalo migrations and tribal buffalo preservation. This flag and its images are used as remembrance of peace, protection and preservation of the proud Winnebago People.

SUICIDE IN INDIAN COUNTRY PART 19 TWO-SPIRITED PEOPLE

Suicide rates among two-spirited, gay, lesbian, bisexual, or transgendered First Nations are not known, but the rates of related risk factors in these groups indicate that the suicide risk is greater than among heterosexual First Nations. Homophobia, isolation and rejection increase the risk of suicide. An individual's risk can be decreased if he/she is connected to his/her culture and traditions in a way that recognizes the impacts of colonization. First Nations communities can support two-spirited people by providing safe spaces that include and respect them, by standing up for them, and by speaking out about the discrimination they experience. The term two-spirit is used in this resource because it reflects the importance of First Nations culture as well as sex and gender orientation and diversity. However, it is important to respect that individuals may prefer to identify with other terms to reflect their sexual orientation, sex and gender identity, experiences, or preferences.

Historically, many First Nations cultures supported and honored two-spirited people; these individuals served important community functions and held positions of high regard and prestige (NAFC, 2008). Traditional social norms typically valued the inclusion and respect of two-spirited people or an understanding of their unique contributions to the family and community (Balsa Huang, Fieland, Simoni, & Walters, 2004). In pre-contact indigenous societies, two-spirited people often held sacred or ceremonial roles such as counseling, healing, being pipe carriers or being visionaries (Lang, 1997, as cited in Alaers, 2010; Walters et al., 2006). Following contact with Europeans, many of these values were lost through the effects of colonization, residential schools, and Christian practices and beliefs that aimed to erase this rich culture, but today they are being reclaimed with language and cultural revitalization (NAFC, 2008; Walters et al., 2006). Some communities were able to retain their traditions and have quietly continued to protect both the two-spirited members of their community and their sacred ways (A. McLeod, personal communication, March 31, 2011; Walters, 1997).

If you know of anyone struggling with suicidal thoughts, please contact The National Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 1-800-273-8255 (TALK), or the Winnebago Behavioral Health 1-402-878-2911 or After Hours Crisis # 1-712-259-3263.

New WIN Intern...

Hello, my name is Alayah Frazier, I am enrolled with the Winnebago Tribe of Nebraska and my parent is Kateri Payer. I am 16 and a Junior at Winnebago High School. I enjoy music, sleep, reading, writing, and drawing. I am a cheerleader and am apart of many clubs and activities.

This is my second job employed through SYEP, I work with the Winnebago Indian News, and it's by far my favorite job yet. This summer I am personally excited to experience and learn job skills and importantly to make money.

When I get older i plan on going into Engineering and Architecture/ Graphic Design or Criminological psychology, but I'm still deciding. I also would consider a job like this because personally, for me I enjoy this job, and what it entails.

ATTENTION

Please be advised that the last day to challenge the 2018 Eligible Voter's List is June 18, 2018.

Challenges include eligible members not already on the list and/or any member that should be removed due to ineligibility.

Contact Lilly Snow at 402-878-3100 if you wish to submit a challenge.

Masthead Scene

We didn't get too many pictures from the Head Start Powwow into the last issue, so here is one last shot of the future of our nations.

Become a QPR Gatekeeper
Learn
QPR for Suicide Prevention

QPR is not intended to be a form of counseling or treatment.

QPR is intended to offer hope through positive action.

QPR is intended to teach those who are in a position to recognize the warning signs, clues and suicidal communications of people in trouble to ACT vigorously to prevent a possible tragedy.

SUICIDE PREVENTION GATEKEEPERS

A Gatekeeper is anyone trained to recognize a suicide crisis and, because of their training, knows how and where to find help.

WHY QPR FOR SUICIDE PREVENTION GATEKEEPERS?

QPR Gatekeeper training takes just one hour and is taught in a format that is clear and concise. Gatekeepers are given information that is easy to understand and reinforced by a QPR booklet and card complete with warning signs, methods to encourage a person to get help and a list of resources available in your community.

WHO TEACHES QPR GATEKEEPERS?

QPR was created and developed by Paul Quinnett, Ph.D. of Spokane, Washington. Dr. Quinnett began a QPR Instructor Certification Program to allow qualified candidates to teach QPR, increase the number of Gatekeepers trained to act in a bold and positive manner to prevent a suicide and save a life.
